

Melanie Houlden is the Chief Librarian for Surrey Libraries and has worked in many capacities as a librarian for over 30 years. As part of her role in planning for the future, she is particularly interested in the role that the public library can play in making technology and electronic information more accessible to the communities we serve. The Coop provides an excellent venue to explore ideas and develop solutions that will be beneficial to all types of libraries throughout the Province.